President's Message

Dr. Mac Powell Begins his Service as ACCJC's Next President

It is an honor to join you in our collective work of ensuring all students have the opportunity for a transformative educational experience. Since its founding in 1962, ACCJC has supported the work of stakeholders with its core values of integrity, quality assurance, institutional improvement, peer review, student learning and achievement, and collegiality.

Watching the recent transformations of ACCJC to be a more inclusive, transparent, and equity-driven organization inspired me to join all of you in our efforts to strengthen the peer-review system and to focus our attention and energy on the purpose that has brought all of us to higher education: students.

As I shared in my welcome letter to the ACCJC Board, there is nothing more transformative than education, and the power of ACCJC member institutions to influence the lives of students and their communities is deeply inspiring. Having worked alongside ACCJC staff, member institutions, and the students that they serve for so many years, it is an honor to be joining the ACCJC family.

I have already begun to reach out to stakeholders to learn more about how ACCJC can either in person or virtually, and recognize that as we work toward the conclusion of our Standards Review Process there will be many opportunities for stakeholder engagement.

If there is a way that I can serve you, please feel free to reach out to me anytime at mac@accjc.org. I want to take a final moment to thank Cindy Miles for her outstanding leadership as interim president, and to the staff of ACCJC who continue to help shepherd the work of the Commission, to whom I am immensely grateful to for this opportunity.

Yours,
Mac Powell

Social Justice. Drafts from the five content areas are being synthesized for review by the Standards Review Leadership Team, which will make final adjustments this summer. The first draft will be presented to the field for dialogue and input in fall 2022! There will be many opportunities for the field to participate in that dialogue, and announcements and instructions for participation will be posted to the Standards Review website and shared widely when available. ACCJC Remains Committed to Supporting its Member Institutions through the Pandemic and Beyond

In support of our member institutions during the COVID-19 pandemic, ACCJC conducted site visits and other accreditation activities virtually. As part of our own improvement process, we continue to evolve in the delivery of our services and accreditation activities. This fall, the staff liaisons will be visiting campuses to deliver in-person trainings, and teams will be conducting review processes onsite at our member institutions. We recognize the value of balancing effective online trainings and virtual gatherings with in-person events to sustain increased access, equity, and convenience in all accreditation related events.

Spring 2022 Election – ACCJC Welcomes 3 Returning and 4 New Commissioners!

The ACCJC Nominating Committee recently announced the results of the 2022 Commissioner Election. The Commission and ACCJC staff would like to congratulate Kathleen Burke, Michael Claire, and Erika Lacro on their reelection and welcome Jeffrey Ball, David Broad, Ángel Reyna, and Katherine Thorossian as new members. Thank you to everyone who participated in the 2022 nomination and election process! Read more...

A Warm Farewell and Heartfelt Thanks to Four Departing Commissioners

As we prepare to welcome our newest Commissioners to ACCJC, we also say goodbye to four departing Commissioners. Ned Doffoney, Public Member; Roberts T. Jones, Public Member; Will Lewallen, Administrative Member; and Matt Russo, WASC-ACS Member, all served two terms. ACCJC staff and Commissioners thank them for their thoughtful and dedicated service to ACCJC, its member institutions, and the students they serve.

Formative/Summative Comprehensive Peer Review Model Moves Forward

Beginning with the cohort of institutions undergoing comprehensive review in fall 2022, ACCJC has begun the roll-out phase of its comprehensive peer review process! We wish to thank our pilot colleges and peer reviewer teams (Citrus College, Santa Barbara City College, Southwestern College, Santa Ana College, Santiago Canyon College) who thoughtfully engaged in this new two-semester process and who provided helpful feedback throughout. A full update on the roll-out phase and information about the process, resources, and communications you can expect in the coming months is available on the ACCJC website. Read more...

Heads Up on Transfer of Credit Policy Requirements

As part of its preparation for recognition from the U.S. Department of Education, ACCJC identified an opportunity to strengthen its Policy on Transfer of Credit in conformity with federal regulations § 602.24(e) and § 668.43(a)(11). Updates to the policy are being proposed for the Commission's first read and adoption in January 2023. We are giving the field a heads up now, as the changes will affect institutions preparing for preaccreditation or reaffirmation of accreditation with focused site visits scheduled in spring 2023.

Advocacy in Action

ACCJC is a student-centered accreditor, where students are the grounding point for every ACCJC Standard. As the only institutional accreditor solely committed to the community and junior college mission, ACCJC has a unique opportunity to help make sure this mission is respected and honored at the national level. We work with partner agencies to leverage our influence and advocate for the success of all students. Please take a look at recent efforts related to civic learning and democracy engagement, federal student aid, and social justice. Read more...
