Online Technology to Enhance Spring Registration at ASCCBy James Kneubuhl, ASCC Press Officer*

As students at the American Samoa Community College (ASCC) prepare to pre-register for the spring 2013 semester, the Management Information Systems (MIS) Division continues to make strides to improve the College's online registration process. "While we are still working to make online registration available off-campus, it's now easier than ever for continuing students to pre-register and register using the system we have in place," said ASCC Chief Information Officer and head of MIS Grace Tulafono.

Tulafono explained that continuing students can obtain their user name and password from the ASCC MIS computer labs, and easily log-in from any computer on campus to sign up for classes once pre-registration for the spring 2013 semester begins on November 13th. "The reason we have not yet made ASCC registration available to those using off-campus computers is that there are security risks involved in making any system public, and this will only be the third registration using online technology, so we are still running security tests to make sure student data is not compromised," said Tulafono. "We are also still in the testing phase of the online registration system, and we are taking the necessary steps to improve our processes with each registration."

The interactive system designed for ASCC students not only enables them to sign up for classes during the pre-registration and registration periods, but also provides them with access to their individual academic record to date, including transcript information, course schedule, and program evaluation consisting of classes already completed as well as those they still need to take in order to complete their declared major. "We've used the past two semesters to pilot the use of the system for students to enroll into classes," said Tulafono, "and although we continue to make improvements, these test-runs have proven successful in allowing students online access to register themselves into ASCC courses.

While the new system makes it possible for continuing students to sign up for classes without needing to see an advisor, Tulafono emphasized that each student is still assigned a member of the faculty as their advisor whom they may contact any time they feel the need for advice beyond what the system offers. "Yes, advisors will remain very much part of the registration process," she said, "but whereas before each and every student was required to physically meet with their advisor, they can now simply refer to their online academic record for the answers to many of their concerns. However, they are still welcome to consult with their advisors should they wish to." First-time students still need to follow the previous method of registering, which involves getting the approval of their advisor, but as of their second semester with ASCC they are considered continuing students and can access the streamlined online registration process.

"The difficulties faced this semester provided useful information for us to improve our processes, and we are confident that the next registration will be even more successful," Tulafono said. For an overview of ASCC as well as information about the coming semester, visit the ASCC website at www.amsamoa.edu.

BHE Re-Confirms Dr. Seth Galea'i as ASCC President

By James Kneubuhl, ASCC Press Officer

The Board of Higher Education (BHE), the executive governing body of the American Samoa Community College (ASCC) at its October 3rd meeting unanimously approved the motion to extend the tenure of Dr. Seth Galea'i as the college's president for another two years. This past Wednesday, October 31, Dr. Galea'i officially accepted his re-confirmation during a luncheon held in appreciation of the BHE as well as the President's Advisory Council, a group of administrators who work closely with him.

"The Board decision was based on accomplishments such as the College achieving and maintaining accreditation status by WASC (the Western Association of Schools and Colleges)" said BHE vice chairman Pemerika Tauiliili, speaking on behalf of Chairman Uta Dr. Laloulu Tagoilelagi who is currently off island. "The process towards ASCC becoming a four year Institution is well underway," continued Tauiliili, "and Dr. Galea'i has established a good working relationship with faculty, staff, students and the Board. In spite of the occasional shortage of funds, the College maintains its payroll, its essential operating needs, and the needs of students. This is during a period where student enrollment has increased from 956 in fall 2000 to 1,795 in fall 2012. All in all, the Board hopes to work in close cooperation with President Galea'i and we wish him another successful two years."

Dr. Seth Galea'i became the ASCC President in 2008, succeeding the late Dr. Adele Satele-Galea'i who had stepped down for health reasons. During his administration, he has guided the College through challenging periods such as ASCC being placed on probationary status by WASC in 2009, as well as periods of expansion such as the development of the four-year Teacher Education and the many campus-wide renovations and upgrades recently made possible through the American Reinvestment and Recovery Act (ARRA).

"The probation status from WASC came as a surprise," recalled Dr. Galea'i, "but we immediately rallied around the idea of strengthening our focus on the identification and assessment Student Learning Outcomes, strategic planning and institutional effectiveness, which has made us all the more accountable to academic standards in the long run. By all of us at ASCC pulling together as a team, we were able to return to full accreditation in record time." Today, Dr. Galea'i's primary focus is on the accreditation of a four-year ASCC degree in Teacher Education, a process expected to culminate early next year. "We've worked in collaboration with WASC during the steps leading to our first Bachelors in Education degree," he said. "We have currently achieved Candidate status, which means our Bachelor in Education degree is now recognized by the US Department of Education and our students in the program can qualify for financial aid."

Candidate status for the Bachelor in Education degree is the last step before full recognition by WASC, but its development has entailed a complex process involving the two separate WASC accrediting entities. "Besides establishing a four-year curriculum and securing the necessary staff and facilities," said Dr. Galea'i, "the complexity of this process has to do with fulfilling the requirements of both the Accrediting Commission of Junior and Community Colleges (ACCJC) who oversee two-year institutions, as well as the Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities (ACSCU) who we have been working with in developing our Bachelor degree.

"My hope is that we use Teacher Education as a template for developing four-year degrees in additional programs," reflected Dr. Galea'i. "Nursing and Business are two programs that immediately come to mind for similar development, but not the only ones. This will take time, but ultimately, I agree that ASCC could become the only US-accredited four-year institution in this region of the Pacific. I hope that all of the planning, expansion and improvements made during my time as president move us further towards that goal."

Working towards this long-term vision, Dr. Galea'i credits the BHE and his colleagues in the ASCC administration, faculty and staff for keeping the institution running smoothly on a day-to-day basis and focused on its mission and goals. "Without their professionalism, knowledge and dedication, we could not have enjoyed the recent progress we've made nor could we maintain our commitment towards the academic excellence we continue to strive for," he said. "I feel lucky that my colleagues make my job so much easier, and that the BHE has extended me both their support as well as enough latitude that our working relationship is balanced and productive."

Word of the Day

lily-livered \LIL-ee-LIV-erd\

noun:

Weak or lacking in courage; cowardly

But surely, for your own sake, you will not be so lily-livered as to fall into this trap which he has baited for you and let him take the very bread out of your mouth without a struggle.

FUN FACTS:

- 1) Wearing headphones for just an hour will increase the bacteria in your ear by 700 times!
- 2) Using the U.S numeral system, if you started at the number one and spelled out each numeral in order like one, two, three, four etc. you'd be all the way to the number one thousand before your first encounter the letter "a".
- 3) The sounding crack of a bullwhip in the air is a supersonic boom. The crack of the whip occurs when the sound barrier is broken!
- 4) If you sneeze too hard, you could rupture a rib. If you try to suppress a sneeze, you could rupture a blood vessel in your head, or neck, and die.
- 5) A ducks quack doesn't echo, and nobody knows why ☺

The More You Know...

Two Frogs ☺

A group of frogs were traveling through the woods, and two of them fell into a deep pit. When the other frogs saw how deep the pit was, they told the two frogs that they were as good as dead. The two frogs ignored the comments and tried to jump up out of the pit with all their might. The other frogs kept telling them to stop, that they were as good as dead. Finally, one of the frogs took heed to what the other frogs were saying and gave up. He fell down and died.

The other frog continued to jump as hard as he could. Once again, the crowd of frogs yelled at him to stop the pain and just die. He jumped even harder and finally made it out. When he got out, the other frogs said, "Did you not hear us?" The frog explained to them that he was deaf. He thought they were encouraging him the entire time.

Moral: There is power of life and death in the tongue. An encouraging word to someone who is down can lift them up and help them make it through the day. So be careful of what you say. Speak life to those who cross your path. The power of words... it is sometimes hard to understand that an encouraging word can go such a long way!

Thought for the day:

Don't tell me the sky's the limit, when there are footprints on the moon ☺
